

Rome electric vehicle incentives

Overview

On Aug, Italy's Environment and Energy Ministry unveiled a fresh subsidy program worth nearly €600 million (approximately $698 million) to stimulate electric vehicle (EV) purchases. This initiative comes as EV adoption in the country remains notably slow. Ecobonus 2025 is the most interesting opportunity in recent years to switch to electric mobility. With contributions of up to €11,000 for the purchase of a new electric car, the program financed by the PNRR immediately attracted great interest. Under the program, individuals.
